In Memoriam, [‘Ring out, wild bells’]

Alfred Lord Tennyson (1809-92)

Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky,

The flying cloud, the frosty light:

The year is dying in the night;

Ring out, wild bells, and let him die.

Ring out the old, ring in the new,

Ring, happy bells, across the snow:

The year is going, let him go;

Ring out the false, ring in the true.

Ring out the grief that saps the mind

For those that here we see no more;

Ring out the feud of rich and poor,

Ring in redress to all mankind.

Ring out a slowly dying cause,

And ancient forms of party strife;

Ring in the nobler modes of life,

With sweeter manners, purer laws.

Ring out the want, the care, the sin,

The faithless coldness of the times;

Ring out, ring out my mournful rhymes

But ring the fuller minstrel in.

Ring out false pride in place and blood,

The civic slander and the spite;

Ring in the love of truth and right,

Ring in the common love of good.

Ring out old shapes of foul disease;

Ring out the narrowing lust of gold;

Ring out the thousand wars of old,

Ring in the thousand years of peace.

Ring in the valiant man and free,

The larger heart, the kindlier hand;

Ring out the darkness of the land,

Ring in the Christ that is to be.

The History and Success of 'A Christmas Carol'

In the late fall of 1843, the 31-year-old author of Oliver Twist and Nicholas Nickleby began writing a story to be published during the Christmas season. With four children and a wife to provide for, flagging sales and decreasing interest in his latest work, Charles Dickens was in need of a career jump start.

Moved to action by a Parliamentary report on the plight of child laborers, Dickens visited a copper mine. Appalled by what he saw, Dickens began to develop ideas for his next story—a story that would, in the author's words, “strike a blow on behalf of the poor man's child.” He titled the piece The Sledgehammer; more than 170 years later, it's the story known all over the world as A Christmas Carol.

The Illustrated London News depicted Dickens giving his last public reading of A Christmas Carol in March 1870.

Writing the story in just six weeks, Dickens told friends that the Cratchits were “ever tugging at his coat sleeve, as if impatient for him to get back to his desk and continue the story of their lives.” Dickens could hardly have imagined that his tale would become beloved by so many.

In 1857, A Christmas Carol became the first of Dickens' works that he performed publicly. The Manchester Examiner reported that “there is always a freshness about what Mr. Dickens does—one reading is never anything like a mechanical following of a previous reading.” In 1867 and 1868, Dickens put on a blockbuster A Christmas Carol tour of the United States, turning a profit of $140,000—more than $3.25 million today. President Andrew Johnson took his family to every performance in Washington D.C., and theatergoers camped overnight in the streets to purchase tickets.

A Christmas Carol has been translated for readers all over the world and adapted into dozens of stage productions, films and even an opera. Though he could not have anticipated how successful his novella would prove to be, Dickens would surely be happy that his story of the virtues of goodwill and generosity continues to reach millions of people every year.

About Dickens

Charles Huffman Dickens was born in Landport (now part of Portsmouth), England, on February 7, 1812. In 1824, he was given his first position in business in the employ of Warren's Blacking Factory, Chatham. For six months, the young Dickens adhered labels to containers of blacking, and perhaps unknowingly, collected material for what would become world-famous portrayals of Victorian England's working class. By the mid 1800s, Dickens had achieved widespread fame with the publication of The Pickwick Papers, Oliver Twist and The Life and Adventures of Nicholas Nickleby.

A Christmas Carol, like many of Dickens' other works, has autobiographical elements woven throughout. Like the Cratchits, the Dickens were a large brood. His own frail, sickly brother often was called “Tiny Fred.” Dickens' spendthrift father, John, caused the family, except 12-year-old Charles, to relocate to a debtor's prison for a time. Charles worked in a factory during this time, and never forgot the experience.

SCR Theatre Conservatory Students Shine on Stage

n today's performance of A Christmas Carol, you'll see young actors in the roles of Martha, Belinda, Peter and "Tiny" Tim Cratchit. And Turkeys and the specters of "Want" and "Ignorance." And the young people among the partygoers. All of them are students in SCR's Theatre Conservatory who earned the roles through hard work, talent, rigorous auditions and the growth and promise they have shown in their classes.

"The students selected for A Christmas Carol show maturity, focus, confidence and an overall readiness to take on this exciting challenge. It's a thrill for us to provide young actors this singular opportunity to perform and learn next to professional artists in this beloved classic," says Conservatory Director Hisa Takakuwa, who portrayed Sally and Toy Lady in A Christmas Carol for 14 years, served as assistant director for 14 additional years and directs the production for the fourth consecutive year. "Each year's cast of 16 young actors brings a new life and energy to this wonderful show."

Many conservatory students between the ages of 9 and 17 audition each year for the annual holiday classic.

They must be active students in our training program, show strength in their class work and have the recommendation of their teacher.

"Our acting classes guide students toward understanding the artistic process, discovering their creativity and building their ability to work confidently with others," explains Takakuwa. "Our students learn through their work in this production and when they resume classes, we see how much they have grown as artists."
