SENSORY-FRIENDLY/ RELAXED PERFORMANCES

Sensory-Friendly/Relaxed performances are designed for audience members who might benefit from a more relaxed sensory experience and a casual environment, including—but not limited to—neurodivergent children and adults, people with sensory sensitivities or learning disabilities, first-timers to the theatre and even anyone who might need to wiggle or stretch their legs every once in a while.

The stories on stage will not be changed—all alterations to the experience are environmental. Sound levels are lightly reduced, house lights remain on at a low level and audience members are welcome to move around, have strong reactions and access break spaces in the lobby as needed. Patrons are welcome to use medical or assistive devices as needed.

Charles Dickens'

A CHRISTMAS CAROL
